SCARBORO-HENDRIX VOWS SOLEMNIZED AT PORTAL

In a double-ring ceremony performed last Saturday afternoon by Elder J. Walter Hendricks, Miss Sara Kate Scarboro, of Savannah, and Portal, became the bride of Lester Carroll Hendrix. The marriage took place in the bride's country home at Portal.

Mrs. Hendrix is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Scarboro, of Portal, and Mr. Hendrix is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hendrix, of Portal.

Mrs. S. B. Denmark, pianist, and Miss Alberta Scarboro, soloist, presented the program of nuptial music. Miss Scarboro sang, "I Love You," "O, Promise Me" and "At Dawn." Woodward, piano, and pink gladioli formed the background for the wedding scene.

For her marriage, the bride wore a dress of blue crepe complemented by a corsage of pink roses. Her accessories were white and blue. The bride was the maid of honor and only attendant. She wore a dress of yellow net over tulle with a fitted bodice and full skirt. Her bouquet was of lavender chrysanthemums.

After the ceremony reception was held at the home of the bride. The table was overlaid with a lace cloth and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Fern and small poinsettias in bouquets were arranged around the cake, which was decorated by candelabra holding lighted tapers.

Master Of Our Economy

IT IS OFTEN said that the extent of our production determines whether times are good or bad in this country.

A somewhat different view is taken in a new book by Paul Mazur, a partner in the old investment-banking firm of Lehman Brothers. The book is entitled "The Standards We Raise," and Harper is the publisher. In it, Mr. Mazur says: "It is consumption, not production, that in fact is the master of our economy—and it is a master which holds all factors to account with rigid discipline."

"Reduce mass distribution ... or fail to make it commensurate with our mass production ... and the entire economic system bogs down into a recession or breaks down into a depression."

No one minimizes the importance of American mass production. It is regarded, and rightly so, as one of the modern wonders of the world. But without mass production, which was pioneered by the chain stores and successfully adopted by other types of retailing, the production machine would swiftly slow and stall. Our employment, our incomes, and our living standards are all dependent on getting incredible masses of goods into the hands and homes of consumers. And that is what mass distribution does with amazing efficiency and economy.

The Pot To Boil

THE NEXT ELECTIONS, which will determine the political fate of all the members of the House and one-third of the members of the Senate, are more than a year away, but to all practical purposes the campaign is underway now. As C. S. News & World Report put it, members of both parties "are issuing statements, making speeches, holding rallies, setting up party organizations, working as if the voting were to be this year instead of next."

In this early stage of the game, the Democratic leaders are the most aggressive, which is pretty much to be expected—the party which is out of power and trying to get back in always carries the battle to the enemy. Another reason for it is found in the character and attitude of Mr. Truman, who is a firm believer in knock-down-and-drag-out tactics so far as political wars are concerned—the kind of tactics which brought him his wholly unexpected victory in 1948.

Actually, of course, Mr. Stevenson is the titular head of the Democratic party. If he wants the nomination again and works for it, the chances are he will get it. But Mr. Stevenson is not the "give 'em hell" type. He does not see everything in black and white as Mr. Truman does, and he does not argue that the Democrats are all on the side of the angels while all Republicans are the devil's disciples. Indeed, there are a number of fields—foreign policy being one—where it is hard to find any basic difference between the views of Mr. Stevenson and Mr. Eisenhower. So, when it comes to the heavy line-plunging, Mr. Truman is filling the fullback spot.

An excellent preview of things to come was provided in Mr. Truman's Detroit speech on Labor Day. He gave unrestricted praise to the achievements of the Democrats during the 1932-23 period. "We enacted minimum wage laws and social security laws. We helped agriculture and small business. We moved to develop the great natural resources of the country in the interest not of a few exploiters but of all the people ... We saw to it that the American labor movement got an even break." Then, naturally, he denounced the acts of the new administration in equally unequivocal terms.

That this campaign will be fought hard goes without saying. The Republican majority in the Senate is tenuous thin, and a switch of but eight seats would give the Democrats control of the House. As of the moment, and largely due to the President's enormous and apparently undiminished personal popularity, the political writers generally are forecasting that the GOP will keep its control, and perhaps somewhat improve its Congressional position. But anything can happen in thirteen months.

To Market Surpluses

SOME TIME AGO a special beef sales campaign to intensify advertising and merchandising of the additional meat which is being sent to market because of the food shortage was announced by the National Association of Food Chains—an organization which operates in every state and represents some 15,000 retail food stores and super-markets.

This action was taken under a recently established Farmer-Retailer Marketing Program, which provides a mechanism for harnessing the merchandising power or organized food retailers to sell increased quantities of surplus foods when requests are received from producers, and when a real need is evident. The program is similar to one which was followed with striking success, during the depression. At that time, as now, the chains laid the groundwork and other types of merchants joined in, trying to bring the producer a better return for surplus crops than would otherwise be the case—and, of equal importance, to give the consumer good products at an attractive price.

This is an example of the tremendous selling power and efficiency of American retailing. It is also an example of the fact that producers and marketers can work together in a free economy to solve problems without relying on government to do it. In that respect, it is a practical application of the philosophy which Secretary of Agriculture Benson has been courageously preaching. All success to it!

IN SPITE OF TODAY'S high prices, many enterprises are earning smaller net incomes than used to be the case. This is largely the result of two factors—extremely heavy operating costs, and intense competition among both producers and distributors for the public's patronage. The result is described in these words by the magazine Printers Ink: "Few things interest top management more these days than how to increase sales. New markets, better saturation of old markets, new products, better packaging and merchandising of old ones, premium offers, special sales, improved products, price cuts."

Looking For Business

Printers Ink was speaking primarily of manufacturers. The same thing is true of retailing. The time when a merchant could sell practically anything by just putting it on display has passed. Supply is equal to or greater than demand in practically every field. In short, a buyers' market exists—which means every store, from the smallest independent to the biggest national chain, must concentrate day in and day out on trying to offer the fickle consumer a lower price, a better product, or some other inducement.

This is one of the hallmarks of a free, competitive economy—the kind of economy that does more good for more people than any other ever devised by man.

"Operation Big Switch"

We are all relieved at the release of 3,597 Americans from Communist prison camps. Our blood still boils every time we think of the 944 that are still held. We hope and pray that their names aren't lost in the bottomless silences of the Russian slave system.

As great as our concern is and shall be for our boys who are held by the Reds, we should be much more concerned over that innumerable army of people who are in bondage to sin. That bondage leads to eternal death. Many who read this article are persons in that army.

Our Bible tells how we may switch from being slaves to sin to freedom from sin as servants of God. "—who shall deliver me from the body of this death? I thank God through Jesus Christ our Lord.—There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus.—" Romans 7:24-8:1.

UNION W.M.S. MEETS

The W.M.S. of the Union Baptist Church met Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 30, to observe the season of prayer, and to give the Mrs. W. J. Noel offering for state mission. The theme for the program was "From Darkness to Light." Those taking part in the program were Mrs. C. M. Nevils, Mrs. Sam Nevils, Mrs. Dolmas Rushing, Mrs. Colon Akins, Mrs. Clinton Rushing, Mrs. J. G. Nevils and Mrs. DeMa's Rushing. We learned that there are over one million lost people in Georgia alone—dwellers in darkness; therefore we have a great mission of winning our state "from darkness to light." The program was brought to a close with a prayer by Mrs. C. M. Nevils. REPORTER.

Here's The Low Down From Hickory Grove

You know, with congress home and with old Bazoville quieted down, we can maybe have time to take a squint around on the home grounds and see what has been taking place right here under our noses. What has been cooking locally has been eclipsed by the tall headlines about the doings of the Big Govt. State Govt. and City Govt. Have gotten the notion that they must bow low to Wash.—how low, if they are to get their cut of the cash dished out here and yonder. Aside from a very few state officers such as one of my Governor favorites—J. Bracken Lee, of Utah—the states have played Second Fiddle, have not talked back, have sat idly by as the right of the state to have a say in its own affairs, has dwindled and dwindled. Now I just been reading where the Lt. Gov. of Calif. says it is time to remove ridiculousness from Govt. Cotton Growers in his very own state, he says, still get checks for cotton they did not even plant. A fire should be built under the boys in Wash. who fix the price of everything, and amongst which is gold. Gold, the one thing of value—world wide—you can't possess—and stay out of jail. Congress in adjournment is going to give us time to find out how come we been so simple for so long. This Lt. Gov. there in old orange juice land. I am addin' him to my list of "folks with vertebrae." He is no scarey cat. Yours with the low down, JO SERRA.

REGISTER F.F.A. CHAPTER HOLDS ITS FIRST SESSION

The Register F.F.A. Chapter held their first meeting on September 21st. Officers elected were: President, Dudley Bradley; vice-president, Jack Quick; secretary, Jimmy Adams; treasurer, Wilbur Waters; reporter, Franklin D. Crosby.
The tenth, eleventh and twelfth grade F.F.A. members have been studying making concrete. To back up their study with experience, the grades are putting in a concrete floor in an outdoor kitchen. After the floor is cured, the school stove will be moved into the outdoor kitchen.
The Register Chapter this year is operating the school store. One way the chapter plans to make money is to top out some feeder hogs. The hogs will be kept on the school campus and fed scraps from the lunchroom.
The chapter has several other ways of making money. We think this year will be a very successful one.
